Columbia International Affairs Online (CIAO) is a full-text online database encompassing working papers, policy briefs, interviews, journal articles, and e-books in the field of international relations. CIAO is a widely-recognized source for teaching materials and features original case studies written by leading experts in their fields, course packs of background readings for history and political science classes, and special features such as interviews with the world’s leading international relations experts.

The CIAO Atlas features detailed maps and country data for 201 countries provided by the Economist Intelligence Unit. It also includes:
- Political and economic background and analysis
- A five year summary and outlook assessing current and future economic growth, currency appreciation, and evolving policies.

CIAO provides:
- A monthly focus piece—an outstanding tool for classroom discussions on current events
- The world’s largest full-text online resource for political science, area studies, diplomatic history, international law and business, policy formation, and country analysis
- Over 500,000 pages of full-text materials comprised of working papers, policy briefs, original case studies, journal articles, and e-books
- A comprehensive source for lecture preparation and course assignments

Case Studies
Case Studies are original papers written exclusively for CIAO by leading scholars in a variety of fields pertaining to international relations. For a complete list of case studies please visit www.ciaonet.org/frame/casefrm.html

New on Ciao:
- A more robust search experience. The advanced searching features multiple filters such as region, contributor, subject, and the ability to search by publication date.
Access cutting-edge scholarship prior to its publication.

For scholars and researchers, CIAO has long been considered a treasure trove for working papers from the world’s leading think tanks. More recently, CIAO’s expanding collections of books and journals have been well received by students, instructors, and librarians at colleges, universities and high schools all over the world.

CIAO benefits courses and research in:

- International relations (at all levels)
- International business
- Strategic and security studies
- International organizations
- Comparative government and politics
- War and peace studies
- Diplomatic history
- Trade and international finance
- Public health
- Democracy studies
- International political economy
- Ethnicity and nationalism
- Development studies
- Trafficking and corruption
- Area studies
- Globalization
- International law and human rights (in political science and law)
- Environmental policy

For subscription information:
Herbert Plummer:
hp2356@columbia.edu

To contribute, contact:
Robert Sedgwick:
rs2499@columbia.edu

Free Trial
For a free trial, log onto www.ciaonet.org or e-mail columbiaonline@columbia.edu.

Or, you may call
212-459-0600, ext. 7112