These Terms and Conditions are between you and/or your organisation, hereinafter ‘Customer’, and the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD).

1. Grant of Access and Usage
   In consideration of the Subscription Fee, and the agreement to abide by these Terms and Conditions, the OECD grants the Customer a non-exclusive and non-transferable right to access and display on a secure internal network, for use by Authorised Users only, the online service ‘SourceOECD’ and the titles and content contained therein which have been subscribed to (hereinafter referred to as the ‘Works’). The Works may be accessible either directly from the OECD itself, or from a designated representative. Whatever the method of access, the terms and conditions, as described in these Terms and Conditions, remain in force. The OECD affirms that it holds all rights granted herein, and reserves all those not expressly granted to the Customer. ‘Authorised Users’ are defined as being:
   a) For Academic and Not-For-Profit Organisations - those members of faculty or staff, either permanent, temporary, contract or visiting, or students, or other permitted persons.
   b) For all other Organisations - those current members of the staff, whether on a permanent, temporary or contract basis.

2. Ownership of Material
   Title and ownership of the Works remains the OECD’s. Any copies made (as permitted within these Terms and Conditions) should clearly state this, together with the copyright notice.

3. Copy Restrictions
   The Works are the subject of copyright. Unauthorised copying, including any modification, adaptation, translation, disassembly or derivative work is not permitted without prior written consent from the OECD. The Customer will be held legally responsible for any copyright infringement, which is caused or encouraged by failure to abide by the terms of these Terms and Conditions. Subject to these restrictions, a single copy of the Works subscribed to may be made, for the purpose of backing up, maintenance of service and archiving. Copies of single articles or chapters may also be made for internal purposes only (such as course-work or training) but not complete publications. For Academic and Not-For-Profit Organisations only, Inter-Library Loan, performed electronically, may also be made solely on a non-commercial one-off basis.

4. Subscription Fee
   These Terms and Conditions are effective, providing the requisite Subscription Fee is paid. The full list of titles and prices available for subscription can be found at http://new.sourceoecd.org. The Subscription Fee is due thirty days from receipt of invoice. The Subscription Fee is exclusive of any sales, use, value-added or similar taxes, and the Customer shall be liable for any such taxes if applicable. The OECD reserves the right to add, delete or cease updating titles to, from and in the Works. If deletions or terminations made during the Customer's current subscription period result in a 10% or more decrease to the Works subscribed, thereby rendering them less useful in a material respect, the Customer is entitled, upon request, to a proportional refund taking into account time elapsed, number of issues already received and value of the title/s within the Customer's overall subscription. A request for refund, in order to be considered, must be made prior to the end of the Customer's subscription period when such modification to the Works occurred.

5. Use Restrictions
   Transmission to any third party who is not an Authorised User, via Internet, World-Wide Web, E-mail, or any other similar technology, is also expressly forbidden. No commercial usage or redistribution is permitted. The Customer may provide access to the Works simultaneously to multiple Authorised Users;

a) For Academic and Not-For-Profit Organisations - for the purposes of research, teaching and private study only within the Customer’s network, which may include halls of residence, student dormitories and staff homes.

b) For all other Organisations – on a single site only. Access for Authorised Users on multiple sites via the Customer’s network is subject to negotiation and payment of an appropriate Subscription Fee. Please contact sourceoecd@oecd.org for more details.

6. Transfer Restrictions
Access to the Works is granted solely to the Customer and may not be transferred without prior written consent from OECD. Any authorised transferee shall be bound by these Terms and Conditions and limited warranty. In no event may the Works be transferred, assigned, rented, leased, sold or otherwise disposed of on a temporary or permanent basis, except as expressly provided herein.

7. Termination
Upon termination, the Customer may continue to have use to the Works, for which full the Subscription Fee has been received. However, the grant of access and usage will automatically terminate if any provision of these Terms and Conditions is not complied with. In this eventuality, the Customer must cease distribution and use of the material, and destroy all backup copies.

8. Limited Warranty and Disclaimer of Warranty
The OECD does not warrant, guarantee or make any representations, either expressly or implied, regarding, but not limited to, the correctness, accuracy, reliability, currentness, merchantability, fitness of use for a particular purpose, or otherwise, of the Works – they are supplied “as is”. The OECD shall not be liable for any direct, indirect, consequential or incidental damages (including, without limitation, damages for loss of business profits, business interruption, or loss of business information) arising out of the use or inability to use the Works by the Customer and, or Authorised Users. Irrespective of cause or form of any legal action, the liability of OECD will not exceed the annual subscription price paid by the Customer for the title/s in dispute.

9. Service Commitment
The OECD retains the right to alter the content of the Works at any time. However, OECD will use all reasonable endeavours to ensure that the Works are available to the Customer and its Authorised Users on a 24 hour basis (except for routine maintenance) once the Subscription Fee has been received, and that any interruption will be resolved as quickly as possible.

10. General
The Customer acknowledges having read these Terms and Conditions and limited warranty, understood them and by paying the Subscription Fee agrees to abide by them. The Customer also agrees that the Terms and Conditions and limited warranty supersede all proposals and/or prior agreements, oral and written, and any other communications between the parties relating to the subject matter of the Terms and Conditions or limited warranty.
