Journal Use Reports (JUR) – the assembled pieces of the puzzle.
Providing vital information to support your decision-making.

Key Factors

Journal Influence

Which journals are the most influential in their fields?
In order to provide superior support of research and scholarly pursuit at all levels, access to the journals deemed most important by the world's scholarly communities within each discipline is critical.

Institutional Publication Activity associated with Journals

In which journals do the authors at your institution publish, and which journals do they rely on most to support their own published research?
This localized “hard evidence” of exactly what is important and useful is an essential piece of the decision-making equation.

Journal Usage

Which journals are accessed most frequently by your university, college, organizational community as a whole?
Fundamental and indispensable evidence of value.

Why Buy Journal Use Reports if I Currently Only Use Usage Data?

Journal X

- 100 full text links per year
- Generally well respected
- Has published critical articles

Journal Y

- 50 full text links per year
- Generally well respected
- Higher citations per article (Impact Factor)
- Higher publications from within institution
- Higher citation count within institution
