CAUL Leadership Institute 2016 Team Activity

Wicked Issues – Group Presentations

As a participant in the 2016 CAUL Leadership Institute, the organising committee would like to work with you on preparing for a group presentation that you will undertake at the CLI in July.

Step 1 - You have been formed into a group of 5, selected by the organising committee. You will also be allocated a mentor from CAUL (info contained in the email). How you utilise your mentor is up to the group. There are 5 groups of 5 participants.

Step 2 – Begin forming your team and decide on your group topic of choice

Your tasks: Share your contact details with each other. Choose a team name, one team contact person and the topic you wish to review, research and present on. You have one week to discuss and agree on this.

Suggested Topics from the CLI Organising Committee include:

• Digital disruption – what literacies and skills are required in our teams to enable success for students, researchers and teachers? How will these be delivered into the future?
• Scholarly publishing: the shifting sands - what is the role of the library in making sense of this for researchers?
• Future academic engagement models: are liaison librarians effective in the new scholarly environment?
• Fostering openness: how can libraries move beyond rhetoric into business as usual?
• Libraries and their value - how do we tell our stories for maximum impact?
• Institutional changes and challenges: how can libraries best contribute to the change process to guarantee success?
• Library as thought leaders in the University: how to make it a reality?
• Ideas Boom: How can the library best contribute to the National Innovation and Science Agenda?
• Or, come up with your own wicked idea/problem/issue for your group to work on

An email outlining these details should be sent by the Team Contact person to the Chair of the CLI organising committee, Sue Hutley sue.hutley@qut.edu.au by COB 24 June 2016.

Step 3 – You and your group then have the weeks leading up to the Institute in July to collaborate and work on your group presentation. You can ask questions to your group mentor, or to CLI Chair, Sue Hutley (sue.hutley@qut.edu.au or 0412764922). Please arrange your own collaboration methods (unfortunately the CAUL Office is not available to facilitate meetings etc) It’s up to your group as to how you communicate and contact each other.
Other detail:

- Your final group presentation should be a maximum time of 10 minutes (please keep to time)
- It should be multi-modal and engaging (multi-modal may include video, performance, new technologies, but we may need to check on AV capability with the hotel)
- Any (small) costs related to your presentation are to be supported by your institution/s - The aim is to use as much freely available technology and presentation material as you can
- Your challenge is to inform the audience and also present a convincing argument, key recommendation or proposal for change
- The audience is CLI Participants and University Librarians

There is time in the CLI schedule for you to work on finalising your presentation between 12-1pm on Thursday 21st July.

Step 4 - Group Presentations at CAUL Leadership Institute 2016

Group presentations will be made on Thursday between 4.30-5.15pm or Friday 10.15-11.00am

Enjoy the experience. Learn from each other. Think differently.
