- Approaches to teaching that influence, motivate and inspire students to learn
- Development of curricula, resources and services that reflect a command of the field

Overview, summarising the particular contribution

- The University Library has demonstrated a sustained commitment to supporting the teaching and learning programs of Southern Cross University as part of a planned and deliberate strategy to enhance the student learning experience.
- The Library's contribution has been recognised through a range of internal and external awards and commendations over a number of years.
- The Library's particular contribution has been to respond to developments in teaching and learning methods, and changes in modes of delivery, in a way which views the provision of information services as central to the learning process.

This has involved...

- (1) the successful and ongoing alignment of Library services to the central teaching and learning functions of the University in a rapidly changing environment,
- (2) demonstrably meeting the needs of clients in a very complex, diverse, regional, multi-campus, multi-sector and distributed learning environment, and
- (3) taking a University-wide leadership role in information literacy.

Key components...

- Aligning Library services with learning needs
- Information literacy and academic integrity
